Bruno Council Sets Up City Manager Criteria

San Bruno council members on Monday agreed on basic requirements in the selection of a new city manager.

The requirements initially were drawn up by Councilman George Corey, with the aid of Mayor Maurice Hamilton. Other council members concurred with most, and made some minor alterations.

They agreed some items may be amended further at a later date.

Basically, they desire an individual with a masters degree in public administration. They will take, however, someone with two years' experience as either a city manager or assistant city manager in a city of 50,000, using this as an equivalent to the master's degree requirement. The individual also must have served five years in public administration.

A preference also will be given to someone who has had two years experience in municipal utilities.

Councilmen instructed City Clerk Carl Hultberg to begin advertising in Western Cities magazine, and other comparable publications, including the International City Manager Association bulletin. Closing date for receipt of applications is June 30.

Hultberg also was instructed to inform all previously known applicants (apparently some of the earlier applications got lost in the records folder exchange set up between councilmen) that they may re-apply by simply returning a post card.

All applications will be screened by all councilmen and graded individually. After review, personnel sessions will be held to discuss the top candidates for prospective oral interview.

A vote of three councilmen will require that any specific applicant be interviewed. Not more than ten applicants shall be called in for an oral interview.

C of C Told Major Quake a Certainty

By FRANK LAPIERRE

There is no longer any doubt a devastating earthquake will hit San Mateo County. The only question is when?

Mrs. Dianne Feinstein, president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, on Friday broke the news to an overflow crowd attending a Chamber of Commerce meeting in Daly City.

She said earthquake experts using slides and aerial photographs Tuesday informed her own Board that "there is a 100 per cent certainty" the San Andreas Fault which runs through Daly City will soon shift.

And if the San Andreas fault shifts, or any one of dozens of "shadow faults" branching out from the main faultline, the quake will be every bit as bad as the one in 1906 which wiped out San Francisco.

For years — almost since the 1906 quake — the San Andreas and Hayward faults have not moved. They continue to build up pressure, according to a report supervisor Feinstein was given in a 3½-hour briefing Tuesday.

"I'm afraid it's just a matter of time," she said.

The visual aids used by federal earthquake experts show 11 major public buildings in San Francisco alone — six schools, one college, a sewage treatment plant, one private hospital and the veterans' hospital — are on the San Andreas fault or a lesser fault.

Unless San Francisco and Daly City take immediate action to prevent great loss of life and property damage that could run into billions of dollars "we (elected officials) will be derelict in our duties," she said.

She recommended that new zoning laws be passed and existing ones amended restricting the building of structures along the faultline.

Once the area is cleared of buildings it should be used only for recreational purposes such as a golf course or a park, she suggested.

Dreisbach Returns to SSF

By BOB PETERSON

Back as South San Francisco's City Manager, Gale Dreisbach is optimistic about his position and the city's future. "By resigning and squaring away the misunderstandings, we've opened the way to get at the job at hand," said Dreisbach Tuesday morning.

Dreisbach was rehired as South San Francisco's City Manager following an hour-long personnel session Monday.

The vote was 4-0, with Mayor Patrick Ahern abstaining in the rehiring of the former Lawndale City Manager.

Dreisbach said he resigned initially because of a misunderstanding with the councilmen as to "what their job was, and what my job was."

"I assume this was corrected last night, and now we're off and running smoothly," he said.

Dreisbach resigned March 15, two weeks after accepting the position, and under mysterious circumstances. That same day he was rehired by the City of Lawndale in Southern California.

The resignation letter, which said simply that it was in the best interests of the city and for personal reasons, supposedly left four councilmen off guard.

"My duty was to inform the mayor," said Dreisbach. "I handed him all five letters of resignation." Mayor Patrick Ahern said he at first didn't accept the resignation because he wanted to talk to Dreisbach about it.

Councilman William Borba, seeking to find out exactly why Dreisbach resigned, met with the (then) former city manager for five hours last Friday.

Borba boiled that five hour session into a misunderstanding of principles, and the fact that Dreisbach apparently didn't feel he was free to do his job as he thought it ought to be done.

Councilman Warren Stein-kamp said, "It is very difficult to be specific (about the matter) without implicating someone."

Mayor Ahern said he had no misunderstanding with Dreisbach. "I never had an unpleasant word with that man," said Ahern.

The mayor said Dreisbach apparently felt (at that time) "that some departments weren't operating as they should."

Dreisbach explained it rather that there is a need for some "reorganization... transferring of functions from certain departments... administrative changes... improvements, if you will," said Dreisbach.

According to Ahern there was no justification for the resignation.

"I felt it was the only way to bring the misunderstandings to a head," said Dreisbach. "If I were to cite instances, it would be pointing the finger, and would be of benefit to no one."

Ahern also pointed to Dreisbach's quick changes from Lawndale to South San Francisco then back again to each city as not being professional.

"If a man is a professional, he should act like a professional," said Ahern. "What has he done to the city he left?"

Lawndale's Mayor Stan Nicoll Tuesday morning said he was "more than a little disappointed. We'd like to have him back. He's an excellent man. But we do have a fine young assistant."

Nicoll said he was not aware of the South San Francisco council's action. "It's a move up. He's a very capable man and I wouldn't stand in his way," said Nicoll.

"The mayor (Ahern) has his definition of professionalism and I have mine," said Dreisbach. "I feel I handled the entire matter from a professional standpoint."

"I will never leave a city in (Please See Page 2, Column 6)

Rt. 380 Hearing Delayed

That public hearing scheduled for tonight at San Bruno city hall concerning the proposed Interstate Route 380 has been rescheduled for March 31.

San Bruno council members changed the meeting date at the request of Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen, who said the alternate date was requested by the state.

The council, however, will still meet this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of setting final rates on the city's Cable TV system, and presentation of a selling program for council action.

Van Dusen said the main truck line and distribution lines are now being installed. They also must be balanced before hookups can be made, he said.

As for the rescheduled matter of the hearing on the interstate, resident Sylvia Gregory informed the council members a committee to oppose the freeway was forming.

Mrs. Gregory said the slogan the group intends to use is, "When In Doubt, Preserve." She said the group is cooperating with established ecologist and conservationists to attempt to change the plans to build the interstate to Pacifica.

The city already has signed a freeway agreement, authorizing (Please See Page 2, Column 1)

Hearing on Land Annex Is Closed

A public hearing to annex a three-block area of unincorporated land into Daly City was closed Monday with only three property owners protesting the annexation.

The total assessed valuation of the three protesters amounted to some $14,875, while the total assessed valuation of the property involved is $136,100.

"This majority protest has failed," city attorney Albert Polonsky informed the council.

He then urged passage of ordinance 715 which will bring the land into Daly City.

John Stanghalini, representing the estate of the late Mario Feno, asked the council what benefits property owners would have once the annexation went through.

The question sparked a short-lived verbal exchange between Mayor Bernard J. Lycett and a scattering of persons in the audience.

Stanghalini claimed property owners were not notified of the annexation.

City Manager David Rowe disputed this statement. He said letters went out on October 19, 1970, while the Local Agency Formation Commission also went out notification of the impending annexation.

The property, adjacent to the Daly City Civic Center, is the site of the new State Department of Motor Vehicles building and the Pacific Telephone service center building.

Jail Suit Ordered

A lawsuit to abate San Francisco County Jail No. 2 west of San Bruno as a public nuisance has been ordered by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The board, acting on the recommendation of a committee of North County city officials headed by Supervisor Robert St. Clair, told District Attorney Keith C. Sorenson to file the suit "as quickly as it can be prepared."

Sorenson said a court order, if one is obtained, would most likely specify the conditions to be corrected rather than direct that the jail be torn down.

In ordering the lawsuit, the supervisors did not rule out the possibility that the jail problem can be corrected out of court by action of San Francisco officials. Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald, although he voted for the committee's recommendation, said:

"I would rather sit down with the mayor (Joseph L. Alioto) and the San Francisco supervisors to attempt to work this out. But I take it the committee feels that this will bring it to a head and will not preclude such talks."

St. Clair agreed.

The matter was put before the board on Tuesday at the request of St. Clair, who said a study report released last week by the California Board of Corrections confirmed what his committee and other groups and individuals have been insisting — "that there is definitely a security hazard in this jail."

St. Clair expressed amazement that, in the face of what he called "overwhelming evidence," San Francisco Sheriff Matthew Carberry "continues to refuse to recognize that this problem even exists." He quoted Carberry as claiming that the jail is "one of the safest in the United States."

Vice Mayor George Corey of San Bruno, a member of the committee, told the supervisors:

"There is absolutely no way to bring this to a head short of a lawsuit. Our obligation is to protect the citizens of this county."

The committee was organized early last year following the escape of four inmates from the San Bruno facility, two of whom (Please See Page 2, Col. 2)

Griffith Files a Complaint of Illegal Bruno Meeting

Former San Bruno Councilman Dick Griffith has filed a misdemeanor complaint of violation of the Ralph H. Brown Act (secret meetings) against all city council members.

Police Capt. Bill Cann said the complaint was filed at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday. He said the department would review the complaint "objectively" and then submit it to the district attorney as a matter of routine.

Griffith had sent letters by certified mail to the council members saying that he saw the previously called 7 p.m. study meeting in the caucus room as a violation of the Brown Act.

In the letter he said the council "is put on notice" that should they go through with the meeting he would file a misdemeanor complaint.

Council members received a second letter concerning the first. It was from City Attorney Joseph Galligan. He said there is no violation of the Brown Act.

Griffith contends that the 7 p.m. meeting had not been provided for by ordinance or resolution since the last council changed the time of the regular council meeting from 8 p.m. back to 7:30 p.m. Nor was the study meeting last night an adjournment from a council meeting.

Galligan said that although the regular 8 p.m. meeting had been changed to 7:30 p.m. the city code section pertaining to the study session had not been officially changed, therefore the study session was allowable.

Griffith was present at the 7 p.m. study session. He at one point vigorously protested that the meeting should move out to the council chambers.

Mayor Maurice Hamilton said to Acting City Manager Leo Van Dusen, "Please proceed."

Griffith then turned to Fire Chief Herb Freitas and suggested that there were too many persons in the room, making it a fire hazard.

The chief replied, "As usual, you've miscalculated." To which Griffith responded, "I see a couple of your friends have disappeared (from the room to reduce the numbers)."

Later in the meeting a suggestion by Councilman George Corey that the 7 p.m. study meeting be regularly set up along with the old 8 p.m. council meeting time met with opposition.

Councilman Neil Christal said "there is a time and place for a study session, but it shouldn't be regularly scheduled."

Both the new council members — Margaret Kozkowski and Tony Governale — agreed that it should be held only when necessary.

Mayor Neil Hamilton agreed with Corey that the study session is a vital tool in the council's function, and it would be held on a regularly scheduled basis.

"I can understand the sensitivity of the new council members, because of all the talk of the study sessions being secret meetings," said Corey.

A unanimous compromise was reached when council members agreed to hold a 7 p.m. study session prior to the April 12 council meeting in the city hall basement. This is referred to as the EOC Room (Emergency Operations Center for civil defense). It is larger than the caucus room.

Oakland the Hub in Railpax System

Should anyone on the Peninsula want to use trains to cross America, he'll find it necessary to first get to Oakland, after May 1.

That's when "Railpax" goes into operation in a government-sponsored plan to improve rail service and keep passenger trains from disappearing across the nation.

Railpax is the popular name for National Rail Passenger Corporation, a semi-public agency which proposes to improve passenger train service by cutting away the deadwood, including all trains which are heavy money losers.

The system will not include commuter trains, which will continue to rattle up and down the Southern Pacific's Peninsula tracks.

Among the first to go would be the Southern Pacific's daily Del Monte, which runs down the Peninsula to Monterey.

Also on the first "no no" list is Southern Pacific's San Joaquin Daylight, a daily train from San Francisco down the Central Valley to Los Angeles. (The southern end of this line has been blocked since the Newhall earthquake, and trains have been routed over Santa Fe tracks to Mojave, Barstow and San Bernardino.)

Santa Fe's San Francisco Chief, which now reaches Chicago from San Francisco by first traveling down the San Joaquin Valley to Bakersfield before crossing the Tehachapi Mountains to Mojave and Barstow, will also be cut off.

This will leave the southern half of California's Central Valley without daily passenger trains for the first time since government grants gave the railroads huge chunks of valley land 100 years ago.

According to the Railpax plan, Oakland will become the Bay Area's rail terminus for inter-city travel.

Thrice-weekly service will be available from Oakland to Chicago over the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific tracks to Reno, Salt Lake, and Denver.

Tri-weekly train service between Seattle and San Diego will pass through Oakland and continue southward on Southern Pacific's coastal route.

Daily train service would be available from Oakland to Los Angeles, instead of from San Francisco to Los Angeles as now.

U.S. Secretary of Transportation John Volpe said Railpax would launch the "all-time comeback in the history of transportation."

Benjamin Biagini of Hillsborough, president of Southern Pacific, disagreed.

"Railpax will be a loser throughout its life," he said.

Biagini said Southern Pacific lost $18,500,000 on its passenger trains last year.

The other 21 railroads included in Railpax reported losing over $200,000,000 on passenger runs.

Railpax Board Chairman David Kendall admitted it is likely that the new system will lose $100,000,000 during its first year, but predicted it will make money eventually.

Backers of the plan point to the reportedly hugely successful "Eurailpass," system in Europe, which allows travellers to move across Europe with a single ticket, and is said to be very efficient as well as very popular.

The great difference is that American travellers have long been weaned from rails by the convenience of private passenger cars and the speed of air transportation.

Whether they will return to the more leisurely travel by rail is the huge gamble behind "Railpax."

Kendall said none of the 22 railroads included in the plan has announced that it will join Railpax, but said they are nearly all expected to sign up.

If not, he noted, the government will require the railroads to continue offering their present passenger service through 1975, even if they are losing money.

broke into a Pacifica home. A retired sea captain was beaten to death and his wife was permanently injured. The suspects were convicted and sentenced to prison.

St. Clair's committee recommended the abatement action last September but the Board of Supervisors asked for the state study before taking action. The California Board of Corrections reported that "serious deficiencies still exist which provide potential avenues for future escapes by prisoners."

Murder Suspect Arraigned

George Richard Radoff III, suspect in the killing of a Brisbane man Friday, was arraigned on murder charges in North County Judicial District Court Monday.

Judge Jose F. deLarios set March 29 for Radoff to enter a plea in the alleged murder of Robert Edward Strassburger, 31, of 51 Tulare Street.

Police charged Radoff with murder after Strassburger was found lying unconscious in the middle of Visitation Avenue in downtown Brisbane early Saturday morning.

The victim died at Mary's Help Hospital some five hours later. A severe wound was found in the back of his head, coroner's investigator James Donovan said.

Police chief William Beard, bedridden with flu, was unavailable for details of the case.

However it was learned Radoff surrendered himself to police hours after an all-points bulletin was issued for his arrest.

He was booked on charges of murder.

Traffic Tieup on Freeway

Hundreds of commuters' cars were caught in a massive traffic tieup on Bayshore Freeway in the rain yesterday.

A northbound auto spun out of control on the wet pavement north of South San Francisco, setting off a series of rear end collisions and spinouts.

Two drivers were injured, according to Highway Patrolmen Robert Herr and Clifford Cerkin. They said traffic was blocked for an hour and 45 minutes after 6 a.m. and backed up from South San Francisco to a point south of San Bruno city limits.

The tieup began when a northbound car driven by Kathleen J. Conger, 18, a waitress of 100 North Bayshore Boulevard, San Mateo, spun out in the light rain where the freeway passes over railroad tracks at Sierra Point. Her car ended up in the fast northbound lane facing south, and was struck by cars driven by James B. Brown, 67, an operating engineer of 122 Wheeler Avenue, Redwood City, and George A. Aguiar, 51, a welder, of 1815 Bayview Avenue, Belmont.

Brown was admitted to Peninsula Hospital with a neck injury and face lacerations suffered when he was sprayed by shattered glass. Aguiar was treated at the Kaiser Foundation Hospital in South San Francisco for face abrasions and released.

Herr estimated at least a dozen spinouts occurred, several before the San Mateo woman lost control. He reported the Brisbane police department sent out two patrol cars and South San Francisco three to assist in traffic control.

The Dollar Just Is Not What It Used to Be in D.C.

The dollar just isn't what it used to be. This was clearly established at Monday night's Daly City council meeting when city engineer David D. Macabee asked the City Fathers to amend a 1967 agreement.

The agreement concerns the San Pedro road widening project.

When the agreement was signed in June 1967 it specified that the sum of $35,000 would not be exceeded as the city's share of the financial burden on improvements.

But between added improvements, such as better street lighting, reflectorized markers, etc., coupled with inflation, this figure skyrocketed to $75,000.

All monies come from the gas tax fund and not from property taxes, it was quickly explained.

Labor Support for County's Big Brothers

A major drive to gain support for the Big Brother program in San Mateo County last month has already netted over $300 in contributions from organized labor, according to Robert Delzell of the Central Labor Council of San Mateo County. He said the labor council is not only seeking money for the Big Brothers program, but also men from the ranks of organized labor to take an interest in a fatherless boy.

Unions which have already contributed to the program include: International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 1969, Journeymen Horseshoers Union Local 11, San Mateo County Employees Union Local 829 (AFSCME), Transport Workers Union Local 505, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Local 617, American Federation of State County and Municipal Workers Local 377, Retail Clerks Union Local 648 and the American Federation of Teachers Local 1481.

Foes Ask United Support Against South Bay Span

United support in defeating the Southern Crossing was asked by Assemblyman Leo Ryan (D-S.F.) at a meeting on Bay Area transportation in South San Francisco.

The meeting was attended by state, county and city officials, plus transit officials.

Ryan said the bill to defeat construction of the controversial bridge spanning the bay between India Basin in San Francisco and Alameda would come up before Governor Reagan next week.

San Francisco Board of Supervisors' President (Mrs.) Dianne Feinstein suggested a group of local elected officials meet with Reagan in Sacramento next week in an effort to encourage him not to veto the bill.

Several officials said they opposed the location of the bridge on the west side of the bay, but not the bridge itself.

They were assured by Ryan that the first step is to stop the building of the bridge. After that, the site of where it will anchor can be worked out, Ryan said.

San Mateo County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald suggested the Legislature attempt to make the Southern Crossing money (some $180 million) available for rapid transit use.

This was one way to keep the Bay Area Rapid Transit system alive in San Mateo County, Fitzgerald said.

After a discussion on the current state of the BART transit link between Daly City and International Airport, Ryan asked BART's Larry Dahms how much it would cost to run a subway line down the Peninsula to the airport.

Dahms explained no such figures were available, but route plans now include aerial, undergrounding and surface tracks, and a financial report was not due on the matter until later this year.

The use of a "credit and deficit" type of bookkeeping to better expend funds on the transit system was suggested by assemblyman Ryan.

This would simply call for bigger expenditures of money along those sections of line that produce more revenues for the district.

Fitzgerald pointed out that the East Bay feels it has a vested interest in BART inasmuch as it has been in from the start.

And they want a link to Oakland Airport.

"The problem, as it always is, is money," Fitzgerald said.

BART's Gen. Mgr. Bill Stokes supported this statement by interjecting, "The name of the game is money." Recent federal funds earmarked for urban mass transportation are out of BART's reach at this time. "We can't get a dime of it without matching funds," Stokes said.

the lurch. I did not leave Lawndale that way. I made sure all bases were covered, and I'm sure I'll continue to be welcome in any city where I've been city manager.

"However, I don't want a running feud," said Dreisbach. "I must work with all five councilmen."

The four councilmen who voted to rehire him sent a telegram night letter to the Lawndale City Councilmen Monday night explaining their position.

In it they stated, "Mr. Dreisbach is to play an integral part in the future growth and progress of South San Francisco."

They asked for the assistance of Lawndale officials "in our (South San Francisco's) re-employment of Mr. Dreisbach," by rescinding their resolution re-appointing Dreisbach.

"We feel that Mr. Dreisbach's services are critical to the welfare of the City of South San Francisco, and we wish to thank you for your kind assistance," said the telegram.

Dreisbach said he was rehired at the $20,000 per year salary he had started with the first time around.

Millbrae Chamber of Commerce manager Chips Maurer has been elected new President of the Associated Peninsula Chambers of Commerce.

Maurer succeeds Les Riddell, Redwood City chamber executive, who was instrumental in founding the Peninsula organization. Maurer has been Millbrae's chamber manager since 1969, when he completed service in the Air Force, and has won a reputation as innovative in promotional work such as the annual Miss Millbrae pageant.

Les Davis of the South San Francisco chamber, was elected vice president of the Peninsula group.

Sheriff Defends Jail: One of Safest

San Francisco County Sheriff Matt Carberry said Friday his jail in San Bruno is "one of the safest jails in America."

Carberry's statement followed a stinging report made public Thursday by the State Board of Corrections in which the 37-year-old jail was criticized for being "poorly designed and equipped for use as a jail."

The report noted that while Carberry had taken some steps to prevent escapes from the facility it was not suited for confinement of criminals "by present day standards."

"This just isn't true," Carberry said. "Security in the jail is excellent."

Only two inmates serving sentences for minor crimes (petty theft) broke out of the seven-story facility during the past 12 months.

"And they were picked up within nine days," Carberry said.

The murder of a Pacifica retired sea captain, Christian Pedersen, in June 1969 triggered several probes into the operation of Carberry's jail in San Bruno.

Delegations of local homeowners have complained to both San Mateo and San Francisco county authorities for years about lax security at the jail.

The 11-page report compiled by Field Agent Edward Veit and Senior Special Agent Emmet Hurst, both of the State Board of Corrections, criticized the jail for being out of date and having poorly trained personnel on its security staff, among other things.

Carberry blames lack of money for much of the criticism leveled at his jail.

He points to many changes that have taken place during the past two years, including the installation of extra strap steel bars over cell block windows.

There are presently some 600 inmates in the jail. Veit and Hurst said they noticed some inmates dropping items on the floor of the cell block just before a security guard administered a "pat" search.

Of the 91 deputy sheriffs guarding the prison, 44 are "temporary." Most are inadequately trained, according to the report.

Internal security is also poor, the investigators say.

For one thing, keys to the facility are kept in an office directly off the main lobby. The front door to the main structure is not locked and the office is open with a counter running the length of the lobby.

Jailers sometimes use regular clothing lockers to store their weapons. Inmates could easily steal them.

There is also a lack of suitable internal communications such as closed circuit television and a working alarm system. Guards now use telephones located in the center tiers to communicate.

"This increases the dangers to jailers," the report explained.

Veit and Hurst also brought out in their report that control of keys at the jail was extremely lax. Many jailers were unable to say how many keys had been distributed for various areas. Nor did they know which key unlocked what door.

Inmates operate the elevator, giving them access to every floor, it was reported.

If internal security were not enough of a problem, the escape factor was in favor of inmates, the report indicated.

And if the findings are true it confirms the fears of hundreds of families living adjacent to the facility.

The two-way radios used on outside patrols are unreliable,

Escapee Is Arrested

Richard Cummings, unemployed San Bruno portrait painter who was listed as a county jail escapee since February 5, was arrested in San Bruno Thursday.

Jail records show that Cummings, 43, failed to report back at the work furlough facility in Redwood City after being let out for a job interview. He had been serving a one-year jail sentence upon conviction of felonious possession of a gun by an ex-convict.

Sheriff's deputies and San Bruno and Millbrae police went to an address on San Anselmo Avenue Thursday night looking for Cummings. He was not there but two Millbrae policemen spotted him in the neighborhood an hour later and took him into custody.

REGISTRATION

Spring registration for South San Francisco Recreation and Park Department sponsored fee programs will be held Thursday and Friday at the Magnolia Recreation Center, Grand and Magnolia avenues. Programs for youth and adults in yoga, judo, social dance, and guitar instruction are all offered over the next few months.

Major Quake a Certainty

Supervisor Feinstein also suggested perhaps a joint San Francisco - San Mateo County board might be established to review building codes in fault areas.

Asked if the $1.3 billion Bay Area Rapid Transit System was in any danger of major damage during a major earthquake, supervisor Feinstein said experts had assured her the San Francisco section of the system would not be damaged.

Later, engineer Bill Chapman, of Kirker, Chapman and Associates, disputed supervisor Feinstein regarding several points, including the stability of San Francisco airport.

Filled land was especially subject to earthquake damage the recent Los Angeles disaster showed. And the airport is built on bay fill, Chapman said.

Chapman said the razing of several hundred homes in Daly City because they are on or near the fault "doesn't make much sense."

Earthquakes often have a tendency to "skip" entire areas, leaving them virtually untouched. This was illustrated in the last earthquake that struck

Daly City some ten years ago. In that earthquake, rigid chimneys tumbled but the lightweight (wood) homes survived the shocks.

Drug Abuse, Street and Traffic Study Meetings

An open, public forum on drug abuse will be featured at the April 20 meeting of the Pacifica Health and Safety Commission.

The commission last week decided also to hold a street and traffic study session March 31 at city hall. The drug abuse meeting will be at Terra Nova High School. The public is invited to both meetings.

Councilman S'an Fraber suggesting that the drug abuse forum allow more dialogue with young people, rather than with older persons who dominated the drug abuse meeting a few months ago at Oceana High School.

The meeting in April will be conducted by Police Chief Mel Nelson.

Russell Ruark, chairman of the Westview Improvement Club, requested center striping and reflective pavement markers on Heathcliff, Inverness and Glencourt avenues. He also asked study of feasibility of one-way streets to relieve traffic congestion. The matters were referred to the police and public works departments.

Butcher Arrested for Impersonation

An unemployed Daly City butcher was arrested in San Mateo City Wednesday on a charge of impersonating the president of MGM Records. Police said the alleged acts occurred in Millbrae, San Mateo, Atherton, Hollister and Palo Alto.

Law officers asserted that Steven F. Pressley, 25, 73 Lanes Avenue, Daly City, convinced several musical groups and school teachers that he was actually head of MGM Records. They say he attempted to form young musicians into groups, and to set up recording dates. One such date produced tape recordings at a local studio, it is said.

San Mateo police report that Pressley apparently resembles the real president of MGM Records, Mike Curb, who is 25, and who heads a musical group known as the "Mike Curb Congregation."

MGM Records in Los Angeles advised local authorities that Mike Curb had not been in this area.

Police said the substitute "Mike Curb" had organized a tape recording session at a Palo Alto studio of a Borel Middle School musical group.

A Borel teacher, Mrs. Robin Crest, reported that the substitute "Mike Curb" had, in working with the youngsters, learned that the band was conducting a raffle to raise money. He had taken eight books of 10 tickets each, she said, and offered to sell them.

Police said the only apparent direct gain made during the impersonation was that the substitute "Curb" sold $79 worth of tickets and kept the money.

Mrs. Crest's husband, Richard, an instructor at College of San Mateo, said the substitute "Mike Curb" had appeared at the college, attempting to set up musical groups.

Steven Rank, a resident of San Bruno and operator of "The Record Store" in Palo Alto, said the person known as "Mike Curb" had come into his store several times in the past weeks, seemed to know the record business and acted like a bona fide musical promoter.

The substitute "Mike Curb" actually bought record albums of the real Mike Curb Congregation (on MGM Records) and gave them to various people, Rank said. In other ways, the substitute "Curb" promoted the real Curb's records, Rank added.

New Classes Are Studied

The Jefferson High School District is studying the possibility of establishing "opportunity classes" on each of its campuses in Daly City and Pacifica.

Dr. Floyd Gonella, assistant superintendent — educational services, explained, however, that any proposal at this time was preliminary, because the tax rate for the entire continuation program in the district first must be examined.

Gonella has recommended that each class of 20 students be extended over four periods daily.

The classes would be for students under 18 years of age who may not be sent to Thornton High for special, more unstructured and more individualized schooling.

Staffing would be in the areas of English, social studies, math and science, according to Dr. Gonella.

He said the overall district cost would be $17,503.

Firm Wins Blvd. Project

Freeman-Songroth Construction Company has been awarded the contract for widening and improvement of South Airport Boulevard in South San Francisco.

The firm submitting a low bid of $308,466.16, also was low bidder on an initial bid that was thrown out because of a typographical error on the city's part.

Director of Public Works Lou Goss said the new bids (six were submitted) were under the earlier bids. He said there was a savings of $8,000 on the low bid.

D.C. Grant

The Department of Housing and Urban Development Thursday announced a $112,800 grant to Daly City to construct a sanitary sewage system.

San Mateo police said they were first called into the case by Donald Parodi, of the Millbrae Firestone company, who resides in San Mateo.

Parodi and his wife told police that "Mike Curb" had introduced himself to them about a week ago and visited at their home.

"Curb" had been introduced to Parodi's brother, a teacher at Hollister High School, and had attempted to promote formation of musical groups there, and to set up recording sessions.

When Hollister High School officials phoned Los Angeles to contact Curb, they were told he had never been in Hollister. Officials of the school contacted Parodi, in San Mateo, and he notified police.

Most Parents Favor Serramonte Schedule

Sixty per cent of the parents whose children attend Serramonte High School in Daly City have said they believe that the modular scheduling concept employed there is beneficial.

The parental response came to a questionnaire, prepared by the Serramonte Planning Council, which was distributed to 1140 parents.

Sixty-four per cent (12 per cent, no opinion) of the responding parents said that the program satisfied their children's needs, and 65 per cent indicated that there appeared to be more educational opportunities under modular scheduling at Serramonte.

Fifty-eight per cent said they would favor open enrollment (freedom to attend Serramonte, Westmoor or Jefferson High Schools).

Most of the parents said special services, such as counseling, attendance and nurses, were adequate.

The percentages, however, were closer in three other areas:

Have you observed in your son or daughter any difference in his sense of responsibility or maturity toward his school work. The responses: Improved, 45 per cent; little or no difference, 42 per cent; regressed, 13 per cent.

The survey showed that 52 per cent of the parents believed the present modular scheduling system should be continued. But 22 per cent wanted to change to a "regular" schedule and 26 per cent preferred a modification, or adjustment of the present schedule.

Sixty-nine per cent said they agreed in the general theory and concepts of modular scheduling. Six said they had no opinion.

The general comments from the parents ranged from "In my mind modular scheduling helps the child mature greatly" and

"In no way do I suggest the change back to regular scheduling" to "The very concept of your program, as it now stands, means that immature students with no direction whatever are left completely to themselves for long periods at a time — there is little or appears to be no opportunity to use this time for academic or physical betterment, even at the student's discretion, since no facilities exist or are available for voluntary extra work of any kind. "I feel there is entirely too much free time for the students," said another parent.

Bilingual Program Unveiled for Jeff

A joint, five-district bicultural and bilingual program for primarily Spanish-speaking students has been unveiled in Daly City.

Ernest Ribera, assistant principal-instructor in the Jefferson Union High School District, outlined the proposal to trustees.

He said the long term objective of the Bay Area Bilingual Education League (BABEL) would be to develop and validate a regional model of bilingual-bicultural instruction that will bring about learning and the development of a positive self image for the learner within the Anglo-Mexican culture that he lives in.

Serramonte and Jefferson High Schools in the JHSD would be involved.

The program is designed to accommodate 75 per cent Mexican-American students and 25 per cent others, which may be made up of black and/or Anglo students.

Federal funding of the program would be required before it could be implemented, Ribera said.

Serramonte Is Accredited

Serramonte High School in Daly City has received an interim term of accreditation through June 30, 1973, according to J. Wesley Berry, executive secretary of the Accrediting Commission for Secondary Schools.

THE RICHARD CORBELLS (Norma Vladyka)

Richard Corbell, Norma Vladyka Exchange Vows

Ireland and Hawaii were the honeymoon destinations of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Angelo Corbell (Norma Vladyka) who exchanged vows at Saint Brendan's Church in San Francisco and are now living in Daly City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Vladyka of Colma who hosted a reception after the ceremony at the Hope Lutheran Church Parish Hall in San Mateo. Mrs. Livia Cecchetti of Sacramento is the bridegroom's mother.

Norma recited her promises in a taffeta and lace gown accented with a full length veil trimmed in lace. She walked to the altar with her father.

Mrs. Edmund Gugel served as the matron of honor and Christine Cecchetti, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid. Both were dressed in red velvet gowns.

Best man for his brother was Ronald Cecchetti and guests were seated by Frank and James Vladyka, brothers of the bride.

Married recently at the Millbrae Community Methodist Church were Mr. and Mrs. Michael Thomas Millar who honeymooned in Carmel. The bride is the former Cheryl Ann Hite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald V. Hite of South San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. William T. Millar, also of South San Francisco, are the bride's parents. The young couple is living in Daly City. (Photo by Coleman)

Verser-Tauscher Nuptials

Friends and relatives of Janine Verser and Richard Tauscher gathered recently for the couple's wedding at the United Methodist Church in Millbrae.

The Rev. Robert M. DeWolf conducted the service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Verser of Millbrae and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Tauscher of San Mateo.

When Janine walked to the altar with her father, she was wearing a silk organza A-line gown with a chapel length train, cameo neckline and long fitted sleeves.

Purple crepe Juliet style floorlength gowns were worn by all the attendants. Diane Speck of Burlingame was the maid of honor and Suzanne Salazar, sister of the bride, served as secondary attendant as well as Meg Bishop and Sheryl Sonnenberg. Linda and Joni Salazar, the flower girls, wore lavender crepe dresses.

Richard was attended by his brother, Peter Tauscher, as best man and ushers were Mike Davis, Keith Stoller and Rich Veglia.

Janine, who was graduated from Mills High School, is the sister of John and Randy Verser. Her husband is an alumnus of Hillsdale High School.

The couple is now honeymooning in Carmel.

Set a child free this Easter.

...won't you take the first step so they can follow?

Our therapists teach kids to walk when they can't learn by themselves. And when their parents can't teach them. We teach kids to talk. We teach kids to hear. To control arms, and fingers. To move legs. Toes. We take little kids that are imprisoned inside themselves and help set them free. It takes money. Give to Easter Seals.

MRS. HAL FOX

A European Tour by Area Students

"Discover the Beautiful World of People" is the slogan of the student summer tour to Europe being counseled by locals Doris and Hal Fox under the auspices of the Foreign Study League, a subsidiary of Transamerica.

As returning counselors, the Foxes have had experience with guiding teenagers through Europe having taken 19 this past summer, and being part of the total group of 180 students and teachers from all over the Bay Area.

This year the tour will be going to Munich, the site of the 1972 Olympics, Switzerland, Lichtenstein, Paris, Holland and England, leaving from Oakland Airport June 27 and returning August 8.

Students already signed to go are Nina Berglund, Kent Bloom, Perry Fox, Judith Less, Robin Fross, Mitch Fox, Denise Sawyer, Mark Hays, Lauren McFalls, Jay Bagley, Scott Kessling, Jim Gerhardt and Linda Wyatt.

Ten units of high school credit or three college units for graduating seniors and junior college students are also given for the tour since the league is fully accredited and the students will actually study the comparative cultures of the countries.

Three openings are still available and reservations and information can be had by contacting the Foxes at 228 Del Prado, Daly City.

Sales Recognition for Campfire Girls

Daly City Campfire girls held a combined birthday party and candy sale recognition party at Westlake Park Clubhouse.

The girls sold 6,738 boxes of candy. The 16 top sellers of over 100 boxes each were awarded silver pins in the shape of a dollar sign.

Two girls, Cheryl Freund who sold 225 boxes and Cheryl Platt who sold 216 boxes, were the only two in recent years to sell over 200 boxes.

The 14 other girls receiving the pin and the amount they sold: Corinne Shoepf, 148; Gail Wolf, 144; Terri Zatzoff, 144; Cheryl Fluehr, 138; Lynette Irwin, 124; and Debbie Burrows, 122; Kim Goldberg, 119; Evelyn LeDay, 112; Sandy Rosenthal, 112; Robin Blood, 108; Cindy Dirks, 108; Robyn Sliter, 106; Meg Gardner, 106; Beth Ann Adams, 100.

Special recognition was given to the Ko-Ki-Ta-Wan-Ka group, led by Mrs. Albert Fluehr and Mrs. Richard Freund, as the top selling group in the city.

The group sold an average of 126 boxes a girl. Members of that group are Cheryl Freund, Cheryl Fluehr, Debbie Burrows, Debbie Barro, Robyn Sliter and Meg Gardner.

All girls who sold candy received a square, green and yellow felt emblem as a bead mounting with one yellow business bead sewn on for each 24 boxes of candy they sold.

Girls of the Ta-Lo-We-Ka-Ne-Ka Junior High Camp Fire, led by Mrs. Charles Stuhler, sewed the beads on each patch awarded at the party.

Mrs. Marshall Platt, candy depot chairman in Daly City, presented the awards.

Tom Powell Your Kid—and Hunger

I suppose most of today's mothers feel they're feeding their youngsters proper and balanced diets these days. However, the Council on Children, Media and Merchandising thinks they can do better.

The Council is particularly concerned about the advertising of foodstuffs to children over television. It says there is misrepresentation, exaggeration, fantasy and deceit. And it says the offering of prizes and bonuses tends to keep children from selecting foods on their nutritional merits.

I think the Council has a point.

I was a youngster just before there was a television in every home — and even then the advertisers had figured out how to push their products at children. We were bombarded over the radio and in the Sunday funnies with offers, games, prizes and bonuses if only mom would purchase the product (usually breakfast cereal.)

I can remember a junk drawer full of food coloring tattoos, secret code rings, Straight Arrow adventure cards, frogmen that swam around under baking powder power, cardboard Halloween masks, puppets, airplanes and cowboys, and a variety of other fascinating stuff that didn't contribute a thing to good health and nutrition.

Today, a cursory look at the Saturday morning TV cartoon fare shows the situation hasn't improved at all in the last twenty years.

Now the Council, aware of this non-reform, has proposed a code to moderate this advertising and wants you to write to the Federal Communications Commission with your support.

Essentially, the code would include these points: mandatory identification of ingredients and nutrients in foods advertised over the nation's airwaves; reduction in the advocacy of sugar; elimination of toys, gimmicks and bonuses to make a child select one food over another; restriction in the number of ads per hour of children's programming; prohibition of ads for drugs, medicines or vitamin pills during certain hours; separation of ads from program content; and establishment of a research center.

"Today a child watching television receives ten advertisements per hour on what to eat," says Robert B. Choate, chairman of the Council. "A moderate watcher of children's television programs receives more than 5000 messages per year, primarily advising him to eat snacks, sweets and soda pops."

Choate noted the FCC has invited the general public to comment by May 3, 1971, on present television practices directed at children. "The code is proposed to open up public debate on a subject where the viewer has been far too silent," he continued.

"We use the airwaves to fight drunk driving, inflation and forest fires — why not hunger?"

To another subject.

It was raining like mad last weekend, as you know, and I was casting about for some good indoor food — the kind you wolf down in your gas-heated house while watching the fury of the storm through the window. I came up with a recipe from the Interlude Restaurant in Hollywood that serves six or eight and costs about two dollars. It's called:

CORN AND OYSTER CHOWDER

- 1 cup diced potatoes
- 1 cup diced celery
- 3 Tbs. grated onion
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1½ tsp. salt
- ¼ teaspoon white pepper
- 1 quart homogenized milk
- 4 Tbs. butter
- 1 package frozen corn kernels
- 24 oysters
- 2 Tbs. minced parsley

In a saucepan combine potato, celery, onion, water, salt and pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 20 minutes. Add milk and bring to a boil. Melt the butter in a separate saucepan, add corn and oysters. Cook over low heat five minutes or until oysters curl. Add to the soup. Correct seasoning. Sprinkle with parsley.

To make this recipe heartier, you can double the amount of corn and potatoes. (Use big saucepans) Also the amount of white pepper could be doubled for a little stronger flavor.

This keeps very well in the refrigerator for a few days (and is even better when warmed up the second day.)

Breadmaking in D.C. Program

The adult home art program in Daly City is featuring a class in fancy breadmaking at the Westmoor Park Clubhouse, 123 Edgemont Drive.

The schedule: Four-week session — March 17-April 7, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. fee, $6 plus supplies.

Future classes in the home arts series will include stitching, batik, children's clothes, crocheting, and beginning oil painting.

SHS Seniors' Fashion Show

Twenty-eight Serramonte High students will be participating in the Serramonte High School Fashion Show by the seniors and sponsored by eight stores in the Serramonte Center, April 2 at 7:30 p.m., in the Serramonte High School Little Theater.

Participants in the fashion show: Cathy Bradish, Laura de Ghetaldi, Nubia Delgado, Diane Fitzgerald, Michelle Fontenot, Mayda Garcia, Dana Gilbert, Ellen Gross, Charlene Hartman, Sharon Hyman, Pebble Lovings, Meg Milani, Cynthia Peterson, Phillips, Chris Picchi, Liz Riba, Sylvia Rodriguez, Paula Smith, Carol Taylor, Cathy Tuttle, Karen Viviani, Bev Yee, Mike Jones, Barry Miguel, Wade Littlejohn, Gary Troxler, Mike Galli, and Clive Twyman.

Tickets will be available at the door for 75 cents each, with a student body card, and $1 without. Proceeds will go toward senior activities.

THE DANCE CLUB at Serramonte had been working late after school to be ready for the Dance Production, "Dance to the Music" which will be performed on March 25 and 26 at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater. This production will have jazz dancing, modern dance, kid skit, and comedy. Among the 18 dances, 13 dancers will appear. Officers of the Dance Club are: President, Pebble Lovings; vice president, Carol Taylor; secretary, Michelle Fontenot; treasurer, Yvonne Davis.

TOM NURIS, Student Body President, will be going as one of the 54 Senate Youth Program Semi-finalists to a visit of the State Senate on April 18, 19 and 20. Among the activities in Sacramento will be visits with top political leaders in the state government, an interview with the State Senator Arlen Gregorio, and as part of the audience of Governor Reagan.

ramento will be visits with top political leaders in the state government, an interview with the State Senator Arlen Gregorio, and as part of the audience of Governor Reagan.

The Senior class will continue to have Cathy Bradish as president. Chris Picchi became the new vice president, Sharlene Hartman ran unopposed for the position of senior class secretary, and Bev Yee ran unopposed as treasurer.

Louanne Heath's Datebook

Mrs. Thomas Bocci, Jr., publicity chairman for the Riordan High School Mothers' Club, urges you not to forget that the club's big luncheon and games day is just one week away and reservations are a necessity for those wishing to take part in the fun.

Mrs. Hugh McNab, the general chairman of the event, and her co-chairman, Mrs. John Walsh, have selected next Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. for the date and time to present this program to benefit the educational development of the school. Chaminade Hall has been selected as the site for the party.

Tickets, costing $3 each, are available now from the reservations chairwomen, Mrs. Robert Walker, 755-7430, and Mrs. John Minkie, 756-3527.

According to Mrs. Bocci the afternoon schedule of games will follow the luncheon being planned and prepared by Mrs. John Ortelte and Mrs. William Trujillo. Other ladies assisting with the preparations and serving include Mrs. Don Keohane, Mrs. John McKenna, Mrs. Eugene Simpson, Mrs. John Woelder, Mrs. John Cresalia and Mrs. Gil Restani.

MRS. KAYE REINHERTZ has been honored by the Camp Fire Girls for her devoted and tireless efforts on behalf of the organization.

Mrs. Reinhertz was presented with the Ernest Thompson Seton Award given as the highest honor to persons working for the girls' program. Mrs. Reinhertz was selected for her efforts at furthering the cause of Camp Fire Girls through Adult Council in District 6.

Mrs. Reinhertz, a longtime Pacifica resident, has been a Camp Fire Girl for fifty years!

DO YOU ENJOY unusual and artistic things? Visit the Candle Holder Show by Pacifican metal sculptor Robert Hulsebus.

The showing, which runs through April 4 is being given in the Periwinkle Art Gallery, 303 San Pedro Road, Pacifica.

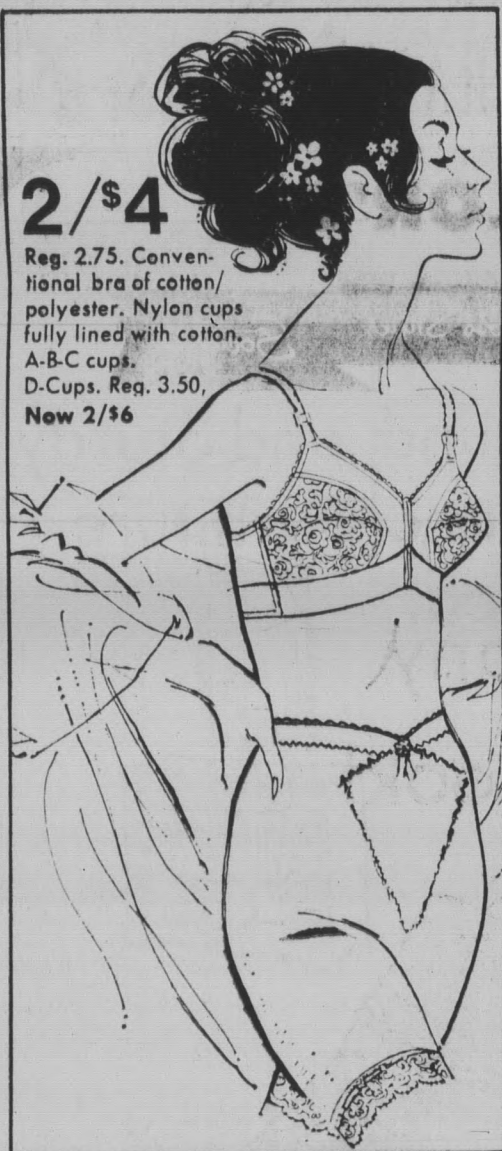

TOMORROW EVENING at 7:45 the members of the Pacifica Fifty Plus Club will hold their regular meeting at the Library, Palmetto at Hilton in Pacifica, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan.

A note to those who feel there is nothing very lively about a senior citizens club — this group of active and youthful seniors is constantly on the go and continually involved in a number of projects, varied enough in content to attract the interest of all types of people. As evidence of the vitality of the club Mrs. Calhan has just released a list of no less than 39 new members.

Among those recognized upon the occasion of their new enrollment were Mrs. Kathleen Calhan; Charles Calhan, Mrs. Stella Filarski, Mrs. Alyne Heagerty, Mrs. Roberta Pierce, Mrs. Margaret Becker, Mrs. Margaret Lee, Mrs. Kay Hall, Mrs. Nona McManus, Mrs. Charlotte Kirtley, Mrs. Irene Bernstein, Mrs. Audrey Fordyce, Don Miller, Mrs. Louise Williamson, Mrs. Marguerite McCracken, Mrs. Josephine Mueller, Mrs. Mae Haines, Melvin Davis, Mrs. Gladys Grimm, Mrs. Mary Gleason, Mrs. Ophelia Waterhouse, Mrs. Gertrude Gabriel, Mrs. Avis Bailey, Mrs. Ann Biggio, Mrs. Thelma Van Winkle, Mrs. Elizabeth Murray, Mrs. Patricia Murray, Sam Lombardi, and Andrew Blahut.

dash pepper
1 lb. can Salmon, drained and dflaked
2 cups cooked rice
1 1/2 cups sliced zucchini
1-3 cup sliced green onion
1/4 cup pimento strips
Make white sauce. (See recipe below.) Gradually, blend the three-fourths cup salad dressing into the cup white sauce along with the fourth teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Add the can drained and flaked salmon, two cups cooked rice, one and one-half cups sliced zucchini, one-third cup sliced green onions and fourth cup pimento strips. Mix lightly. Pour into greased, shallow 2-quart baking dish. Bake 350-degrees, 35 to 40 minutes. Garnish with parsley. Serves 6.

WHITE SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
Melt the two tablespoons butter in small saucepan. Blend in the two tablespoons flour until smooth. Add the cup milk gradually, stirring constantly until boiling point is reached. Reduce heat and cook for three minutes longer, add the half teaspoon salt and blend.

Since we have just one meatless day in the week during Lent, let's think about an entree that uses steak, a favorite meat of many people.

SWISS STEAK DELUXE

2 to 3 pounds round steak or Swiss steak
1 tablespoon dry mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
3/4 cup flour
4 tablespoons shortening or bacon drippings
1 1/2 cups sliced onion
2 carrots, diced
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons brown sugar
3 cups canned tomatoes (No. 2 1/2 can)
Cut steak into serving pieces. Combine the one tablespoon dry mustard, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper and three-fourths cup flour. Pound seasoned flour into meat. (Work in as much flour as possible.) Melt the four tablespoons shortening. Brown meat on both sides.

Transfer meat to casserole with cover. Sprinkle the one and half cup sliced onion, and two diced carrots over meat. Add the two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, two teaspoons sugar to the three cups tomatoes. Pour over meat.

Cover and bake 2 hours at 325 degrees. When meat is tender, lift out to a platter, keep warm while you thicken sauce with flour. Pour sauce over meat. Serves 6 generously.

With this meat you could serve either mashed potatoes, buttered noodles or rice. The sauce is so good it makes a wonderful topping for any of these starches.

Bridge Marathon Planned

Bridge players — men and women — are being invited to participate in a bridge marathon to be sponsored by the Women of St. Martin's Episcopal Church in Daly City.

Five games, two each month, will be played beginning April 1.

Participants will play either in their own or their partners' homes.

Players will be asked to select their own partners and to designate whether their games will be held in the afternoon or evening so that they be scheduled accordingly.

Each person will pay $1 a game, and awards will be awarded the third weekend in June.

Sponsors have pointed out that participation in the marathon presents an excellent opportunity for newcomers as well as old timers to meet other bridge players.

Information about the marathon may be obtained by calling Mrs. Elsa Carpenter or Mrs. Edna Thompson.

The Jeff Scene

By SUE McALLISTER

The Easter Bunny (Peter Rabbit?) is coming to Jeff. During the week of March 29th through April 2nd the Art Club will hold its annual Easter Egg Sale at lunchtime every day of the week.

The students government class held an open Student Body meeting in the gym March 18, with about 1000 students attending the activity — a successful try at student awareness.

Nine student representatives addressed the crowd briefly. Jocelyn Smith spoke of Constitutional revisions: the student body president must be a senior, vice president a junior or a senior, and all other student body officers must be at least a sophomore.

Jocelyn said voter registration was to be held after Easter and that students must be registered before they may vote.

Aileen Flores discussed the financial status — developing because students are not buying Student Body Cards.

Joan Loskutoff told of activities associated with the Spirit Week and the Spring Festival. Class members must wear class colors (Freshmen, Monday — Red; Sophomores, Tuesday — yellow; Juniors, Wednesday — blue; and Seniors, Thursday — white,) on this day or be fined a five cent tax penalty which will go to the class fund.

On Friday, all must wear blue and gold or a five cent tax for students and 25 cent tax for teachers will be charged. All the money will go into the student body fund.

Booths will be open on Friday with such activities as palmistry, water balloon toss, dart toss, and races. The cafeteria will be closed, so booths containing pastries, hot dogs and other food will be open. A special schedule will be used, with each period lasting a half hour. The festival will run from 10:50 a.m. to 1 p.m. with school excused at 2:10.

Doug Harrison addressed the seniors, discussing such financial matters as Disneyland, the Senior Ball, the Senior Picnic, Grad night and the budget.

Margine Sako told juniors about the Spring Festival and the arrival of the T-shirts.

Eddie Elauria talked to the sophomores concerning their booths in the festival and the growth in funds from money-making this year.

Virginia Corden discussed with the freshmen their financial situation and participation in the festival.

Alex Senica, Pow-Wow commissioner, addressed the assembly concerning student attendance to the spring athletic events.

This program is to be expanded in the future for more student participation.

Terra Nova Topics

By Rockie Montenegro

A five-man accreditation team from the Western Association of schools and colleges (W.A.S.C.) visited Terra Nova to evaluate TN's high school program.

The team observed classes and attended committee meetings composed of students, faculty, and administration. The members of each committee were chosen earlier in the year, and included four class presidents: Mike Banks, Mark Jackson, Dale Dennis, and Jan Sawyer, Student Body President Bud Papadakis, and three members from OSA — Debbie Humphrey, Muv Kapunial, and Kathy Racanelli.

The student committee worked during the first semester with Principal Thanos Panagoulas in tabulating a student questionnaire. The questionnaire was filled out by a cross section of students, and took a sampling of student opinions on many facets of Terra Nova, including student government, clubs and athletics, and food service.

After the questionnaires were tabulated, the student committee wrote a report summarizing the results of the survey.

The results on TN's accreditation will soon be officially released, and will be presented in this column.

THE JUNIORS held their Junior Prom, "An Evening Thru Paradise," March 5, in the tropically decorated Auxiliary Gym. The elected court that "reigned" during the evening was, King George Yaron, Queen Denis Crouch, Princess Bob Tassi and John Racanelli, Princesses Joy Richardson and Mary Beall.

Fees for the programs are slightly higher for non-residents. Information may be obtained by contacting the Recreation and Park Department.

A Mock Trial at WHS

Giving it the old Perry Mason touch March 16-17 were the Westmoor High School second, third, and fifth period junior English classes of Mrs. Berneta Williams. When they staged a mock trial based on the book, "Native Son," by Richard Wright.

Members of the three classes volunteered to play characters from the book. Ron Williams took the part of Negro worker, Bigger Thomas, who, while working for a rich white family, kills their daughter, Mary Dalton. Attempting to obtain a light sentence for Bigger was defense attorney Brian Clark. Hoping to send the accused to the gas chamber, was the prosecution attorney, Bruce Zissen.

Twelve class members were chosen for the jury. They were Kevin Brake, Casey Clar, Danny Hingle, George Lutz, Mary O'Dea and Steve Peters. Additional jurors were John Wilson, Lindsey Anderson, Steve Lopez, Terry Willey, Patty Wagman, and Jim Woods.

Students also took parts from the book to provide witnesses for the lawyers. These were Dave Johnson, Jenny Nicholas, Glen Gallegos, Jeff Polonsky and Jim Velente. Also questioned were Marian Pigott and John George.

Presiding over the trial as judge was Eric Bogatin.

As the trial proceeded, the strategies of the two lawyers became apparent. Brian wanted to prove that an oppressive society had forced Bigger into committing the horrible act, while Bruce attempted to show how Mary had been brutally killed.

Bruce called to the stand Glen Gallegos, acting as a reporter. Glen testified that he had found two bones in the Dalton's furnace, in addition to an earring. Jeff Polonsky, testifying as a bone specialist Fom V. Femor, certified the bones as Mary's.

Brian, hoping to show the wretched conditions under which Bigger lived, called to the stand John George, who acted as Mary's father, Mr. Dalton. Under questioning, he told the jury how he owned the ghetto areas where Bigger lived, and described the type of place it was.

Because of the limited time factor, certain members of the classes planned an exciting conclusion to the trial. Thus, on the second and last day, Bill McIntype, playing Jan, Mary Dalton's lover, leapt from the audience with the P. E. department's starting gun in his hand and fired at Bigger, "killing" him as he was retreating.

Participating music students were from Bay area high schools, junior highs and elementary schools.

In eight different locations, soloists and ensembles moved in every ten minutes to play for rating and remarks by an adjudicator.

Westmoor won 15 Superior ratings, six Command Performances, and 15 Excellent ratings.

Marshal Summers, singing a solo, earned an Excellent rating.

Carol Jeppson and Hilary Reece captured Superior ratings with flute solos.

A violin duet by Gwen Gomez and Shawn Whiteman also was rated Excellent.

John Snowberger, Ingrid Sausjard, Linda Geras and Sue Schumacher played as a flute quartet and earned an Excellent rating. A clarinet quartet came up with a Superior rating. Playing in that were Jackie Abbey, Leilani Omoto, Lydia Durkin and Pam Collier.

A flute trio of Linda Geras, Sue Schumacher and Hilary Reece received an Excellent rating. A clarinet sextet which came through with a Superior rating and a Command Performance.

Only the best of those with Superior ratings were picked to play a Command Performance in the theater.

This group consisted of Jackie Abbey, Georgie Frazer, Karen Schumacher and Leilani Omoto on B-flat clarinets, Bill O'Shaughnessy on alto clarinet and Julie Hart on bass clarinet.

Conciave Produces
Lots of Air Talk

By GEORGE GOLDING

The recent all-day "conference" on air transportation, the environment and the economy, was not really a conference.

It was mostly a sounding-board for airlines' opinions which have often been heard, but seldom in such a public arena.

The session, at San Francisco's Fairmont Hotel, had been described in advance as "a sweeping public examination" of the airline industry's problems, and presumably was to offer some opportunity for the public to join in conferring with industry leaders over possible solutions.

Mostly, those attending represented various airlines, or airports, or government agencies working with the industry. The few public visitors willing to pony up $10 to attend, had but one opportunity to join in the conference, with questions following a mid-morning panel discussion. The discussion consisted chiefly of prepared talks.

Only James Nissen, manager of the San Jose Municipal Airport, frankly outlined what the industry should do about public complaints of jet noise, and air pollution.

"I don't think we will solve the problems of noise or air pollution," he said, "while we continue to use that phrase 'economically feasible,' as part of the definition of what we should do."

"We have to take a different approach," Nissen said aviation, the airlines, the airports, and the government, must do three things: define what can be done to reduce noise and air pollution; decide when these things can be done; and figure out how to pay for necessary modifications.

He proposed a ticket tax, so that the user pays for it, and the non-user doesn't, to provide money for muffling jet engines, the cheapest way to reduce a portion of jet aircraft noise.

A pilot himself, Nissen called upon the airlines "to use available techniques to reduce noise pollution, and said that 'pilots can do a pretty good job.'"

Other speakers commented that the airlines industry generally produces less than one percent of the total smoke emissions produced daily in this country, and said automobiles, buses and trucks, produce far more.

Several speakers pleaded for regional control of airport land use, so that compatible land uses could be ensured, around airports.

"A greater understanding of the public is necessary," said Christopher Knapp, director of aviation for the Port of Oakland.

"Nothing has ever happened in the United States that has done so much for human ecology as the airline industry," said James K. Carr, manager of San Francisco International Airport.

Walter Gilfillan, head of the recent Bay Area Regional Study of Airport Requirements which is now a part of the Association of Bay Area Governments, proposed noise levels be adopted by ABAG as one of the planning criteria around airports.

Stuart Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association of America, said the airlines industry is faced with a heavy public obligation to keep itself financially sound, in order to meet its other responsibilities.

"Six imperatives," he said, "are that we must run the system, we must constantly expand service, technology must improve, we must be economically successful, we must not increase noise and air pollution, we must reduce noise and air pollution."

Hundreds of persons present at the Fairmont hotel's grand ballroom, heard Oscar Bakke, Federal Aviation Administration chief of planning, say:

"No mode of transportation has dealt so kindly with man, regarding air pollution, as the airline industry."

Dr. John Powers, director of the FAA's office of environmental quality, described the history of aviation anti-noise programs, dating from 1952. He said three areas of control are available, regarding aircraft noise:

Control of the source, adjustment of the "acoustical path" traveled by the noise, and "land use planning."

Powers said it would cost the industry "$800,000 for a fleet-wide-retro-fit of noise suppressors that would reduce noise output by 5 decibels." He questioned whether this was a proper expenditure for such a small result.

In a luncheon speech, Dr. Walter Hoadley, chief economist for the Bank of America, said "this is an important industry to this area, the danger is that we take it for granted."

He urged airlines people to be more realistic in financial planning, in projecting need for expansion, and in responding to apparent public demand.

"There are forces operating on this industry that we'd better take a look at," he said, pointing to government allocation of routes and rates, and the effects of government regulated competition.

Girl Injured in Bruno
Crash After Wild Chase

A 17-year-old San Mateo girl, was critically injured when the car she was riding smashed into a power pole at the dead end of a San Bruno street early on Friday as three California Highway Patrol cars were chasing the vehicle.

Reported in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Peninsula Hospital is Judy Ann Cornellier of 1506 Shoreview Boulevard, San Mateo. The driver of the vehicle, Michael Warren Ramsell, 22, a sheet metal worker of 1305 Vista Grade, Millbrae, who escaped with minor injuries, was booked at the county jail on a felony drunk driving charge.

Officers reported that a wild 12-block chase through the residential areas of San Bruno ended when Ramsell's car crashed into a power pole at the dead end of First Avenue around 2 a.m.

Highway Patrolmen Kevin Benson and Warren Dean reported they were in a San Bruno Avenue coffee shop when they heard Ramsell's car "roar" out of a service station a block away.

As Benston and Dean ran toward their patrol car, a second CHP unit containing Patrolmen Bill Smyser and Kelly Smith was just pulling up. The first two officers waved them after the fleeing auto. About this time a third patrol vehicle with Sgt. E. J. Laine and Patrolman Richard Anderson was approaching the area.

Smyser and Smith reported Ramsell headed east on San Bruno Avenue at about 70 miles per hour, before turning off onto side streets in an attempt to elude the pursuing cars. During the chase, in which Ramsell went as fast as 65 to 70 in 25-mile per hour zones, the car went through at least four stop signs, the officers said.

The chase finally ended when Ramsell's car hit the pole. He only suffered minor facial lacerations, the officers reported.

Program Not Failing
Says Health Officer

County Health and Welfare Director Dr. George Pickett has denied an allegation by the Citizens Council on Drug Abuse that the Phase V drug program has failed in the county.

In resolution submitted last month to the Board of Supervisors by Dr. Stanford Rossiter, president of the citizens council, it was alleged that the program had failed mainly due to the absence of a full-time drug coordinator and that there were no treatment facilities for heroin addicts in the county.

The resolutions also urge that application be made to the state for a methadone treatment and maintenance program in the county.

In a letter to the Board of Supervisors, Pickett says that neither he nor the director of the county's mental health services program were contacted by Dr. Rossiter concerning the matter prior to submission of the resolutions to the board.

In his response, Pickett states: "The Phase V program has by no means failed; 'There is apparently some confusion as to what the drug coordinator did in the past and what is intended for that role in the future; 'While treatment programs for narcotic addicts are generally inadequate throughout the country, we have treated a number of addicts locally; 'We are preparing a small methadone maintenance program proposal and hope to implement it in the near future.'"

Pickett says that job specifications for a drug abuse program coordinator have been developed and the county has for the past three months been actively seeking a person to fill the post.

Absence of the position "has not jeopardized the Phase V program," Pickett states, adding that the program has been effective in the past and "will become even more effective under the new organizational structure."

Although the county is developing a proposal for a small methadone maintenance program, it should be remembered, the health and welfare director says in his letter, that it will be of real benefit to only a portion of the addict population.

He says that the older heroin addicts who have been addicted for many years and have strong motivation for terminating their addiction are the ones who will take advantage of the methadone program, but they constitute a "minority group" within the heroin using population.

Devil's Slide Delay?

Legislation having the avowed purpose of speeding up construction of the Devil's Slide by-pass could actually delay it by as much as a year, County Engineer S. H. Cantwell said March 16.

Cantwell told the Board of Supervisors that his office was informed by the Division of Highways that it might take an extra year to plan and acquire right-of-way for the new alignment provided in the bill.

The legislation, authored by State Senator Arlen Gregorio and co-authored by Assemblymen Dixon Arnett and Leo Ryan and designated as SB 358, would take Cabrillo Highway from Pacifica south to the Santa Cruz County line out of the state freeway system. In announcing the bill two weeks ago, Gregorio said it would speed construction of the by-pass if the route reverted to the status of a conventional highway rather than a freeway. Besides, he said, a freeway would require massive cuts and fills and necessitate destruction of homes in built-up areas.

Cantwell told the supervisors, however, that SB 358 would change the routing of the by-pass around treacherous Devil's Slide, which has been labeled the county's number one priority and is scheduled for construction in 1972-73. The route that is being planned would leave the existing highway at the southern city limits of Pacifica, skirt to the east of the slide area and rejoin the highway near Half Moon Bay Airport. Under the Gregorio bill, however, the by-pass would take a short-cut and rejoin the highway at the mouth of Martini Creek north of Montara.

Cantwell said the new alignment could cause a year's delay in planning.

Supervisor Gerald F. Day said he has asked Gregorio to put the proposal on ice until public hearings can be held.

"I'm not too sure what he has in mind," Day said. "I don't think enough study has gone into this."

The board asked County Manager M. D. Tarsnes to express the board's concern to Gregorio and to ask the opinions of the two affected cities — Half Moon Bay and Pacifica.

(At the same time last month the Half Moon Bay city council decided to ask that the Gregorio bill be delayed.)

Clifford Green, assistant District Four highway engineer, told the council last week that adoption of the Gregorio bill would "delay the Devil's Slide highway for two fiscal years." It probably is destined for the 1972-73 highway budget now but could be put back to 1974-75, Green said, because of extensive re-routing, redesigning and new route adoption hearings that would be required.

"But the state senator told us this would expedite the new highway," Councilman Gerald D. Pera replied. He suggested also the city "reach out to Arlen Gregorio immediately and check signals here."

Councilman Cecil J. Marmont noted the council had been told about "only a small portion of the bill" and that the proposal to shorten the road and lessen the cost had seemed like a good idea at the time.

On another matter, Green hadn't even started before the council was chiding him about the San Mateo Road. "Did you find your way here all right?" Marmont asked.

There is no directional sign to Half Moon Bay on the Nineteenth Avenue Freeway west of Bayshore Highway and many motorists have been confused at the intersection with Junipero Serra Freeway, where they're directed to San Francisco and San Jose but not Half Moon Bay.

There is a directional sign for northbound Junipero Serra drivers at the intersection. Green said he would look into the shortage.

Flood Claims Filed in S.S.F.

More than a million dollars in flood claims have been submitted to South San Francisco councilmen as a result of the November 26 flooding of Colma Creek. Twelve claims were filed.

Following normal procedure, the councilmen recently denied the claims and referred them to the city attorney and the city's insurance carrier.

Millbrae Apt. Approved

Millbrae's latest apartment project won city council approval March 16 for 146 residence units to be built in a town house block at Richmond Drive and Laurel Avenue by the nation's largest homebuilding firm.

There was some opposition, with Councilman Arthur Lepore saying he does not like the proposed use of composition shingles instead of the wood shingles earlier suggested.

Over Lepore's objections, the Leavitt & Sons project was approved 4-1, with a completion date set for June 1, 1972.

A high degree of city control over architecture and planning was reached because the project is a planned unit development, with several buildings on one plot of land, to be built together and operated under one ownership.

Atty. Dale Carlyle said his firm plans to complete the apartments, a recreation building, swimming pool, and utilities building, within nine months after start of construction.

He said the work should be done this year, but asked for additional scheduled time, to allow for possible unforeseen delays.

Carlyle agreed to provide the city with a bond guaranteeing that off-site improvements would be completed, and to provide bonds for completing the recreation room and pool, before occupancy begins.

Another hopeful developer of property in the one-time Silva Ranch tract, Robert F. Lawrence, did not fare so well.

He had appealed to the council for reversal of a Planning Commission decision which had refused him permission to build two 15-unit apartment buildings just across Laurel Avenue from the Leavitt project.

After some discussion, Councilman James O'Connor moved to approve Lawrence's request, but failed to find a second.

Councilman Bernard Esser moved to disallow the appeal, won an immediate second from Councilman Lepore, a vote from Councilman Harold Purpus, to win 3-2.

Persons attempting to sell narcotics in South San Francisco are starting to feel the heat, said Police Lt. Jim Datzman today.

He was referring to the fact the department has made five narcotics arrests in the past few weeks, and 12 arrests of sale of narcotics in that city since the first of the year.

The latest arrest was made Wednesday night, involving one adult and two juveniles.

Booked was Zoe Ellen Tucker, 19, of 122 Duval Drive, along with two male juvenile companions, ages 16 and 17.

Datzman said Detective Doug McCool and state narcotics agents made the arrests after several sales of marijuana were made in recent weeks.

He was referring to the fact the department has made five narcotics arrests in the past few weeks, and 12 arrests of sale of narcotics in that city since the first of the year.

The latest arrest was made Wednesday night, involving one adult and two juveniles.

Booked was Zoe Ellen Tucker, 19, of 122 Duval Drive, along with two male juvenile companions, ages 16 and 17.

Datzman said Detective Doug McCool and state narcotics agents made the arrests after several sales of marijuana were made in recent weeks.

He said the work should be done this year, but asked for additional scheduled time, to allow for possible unforeseen delays.

Carlyle agreed to provide the city with a bond guaranteeing that off-site improvements would be completed, and to provide bonds for completing the recreation room and pool, before occupancy begins.

Another hopeful developer of property in the one-time Silva Ranch tract, Robert F. Lawrence, did not fare so well.

He had appealed to the council for reversal of a Planning Commission decision which had refused him permission to build two 15-unit apartment buildings just across Laurel Avenue from the Leavitt project.

After some discussion, Councilman James O'Connor moved to approve Lawrence's request, but failed to find a second.

Councilman Bernard Esser moved to disallow the appeal, won an immediate second from Councilman Lepore, a vote from Councilman Harold Purpus, to win 3-2.

A Nice Speech

THAT WAS A NICE SPEECH by San Francisco Supervisor Dianne Feinstein at the Daly City Chamber the other day. She had her facts regarding earthquakes a little mixed up. And when asked by Councilman McRobert Stewart about the budget percentage of San Francisco's city employee's payroll, her answer was "about 40 per cent." She said that figure may be a "little off." Undoubtedly the understatement of the year! That figure should be more like 80 per cent to bring it in line with other cities of the same size in the state.

A QUESTION BY former Councilman Edward J. Dennis on illuminated street signs caught her by surprise. She promised to look into the matter after Dennis pressed for a reason why the "City That Knows How" doesn't have shine-in-the-dark street markers. Matter-of-fact, Dennis originally brought the matter up in 1969. Still not done! The unwary motorist who doesn't know his way around San Francisco better keep a real sharp eye out — most streets only have ONE faded street sign.

FLASHY FLASH — This is being written at 10 a.m. Monday, March 22. Our Source in South City once again caught us off-guard with another political plot. Gale Dreisbach, two-week veteran of the South City City Manager's Office, is going to put his name plate back on the desk. He's returning to his post, Our Source says.

The mystery behind Dreisbach's resignation and rehiring remains just that — a mystery. Those that claim they know why Dreisbach quit, point the finger of blame to one city councilman who became a little too ambitious and tried to press his demands on the newcomer.

It didn't work with Dreisbach (yet). And it also failed to work with Tom McKenzie and Gene Aiello before him.

THE SHADOW KNOWS that the day after Dreisbach shook the council to its very foundation, the acting city manager (usually the assistant to the city manager) Larry Ross was offered the job at some $5000 LESS per year than he makes as ACTING city manager. Nice try, fellas!

SPECIAL TO Mayor Bill Glang of Millbrae. You asked how BART could move into an area now sprouting those huge PG&E towers west of the Bayshore Freeway when your city has been trying for years to latch onto that same property for a street? Easy! PG&E supplies electricity, right? and BART trains run on . . . electricity, right? Well . . . mayor, you just got your answer. Off the record, of course.

WATCH OUT Pacifica and South San Francisco. After they get that health clinic in Daly City, Shelley Fernandez is aiming her clinical sights on those two areas.

SICK CALL — Joseph Lewkowicz, Marv's Help, again with bad back . . . Ed King apparently felled by a vicious virus bug is expected back home today . . . John Papan, son of D. C. Councilman Louis J. Papan, doing nicely at University of Calif. Medical Center after surgery. Louis said he was "overwhelmed" with the kindness shown by the community during his son's illness.

TALK ABOUT CONTACTS — D.C. Mayor Bud Lyceett apparently knows some people in high places. His granddaughter, Nicole Jennifer Lyceett, arrived at 2:15 p.m. St. Patrick's day, the proud parents, Ed and Mary, boast she's a beauty. Grandfather Bud claims she cries with an Irish brogue. Blarney, we say . . . Day before, Superior Judge Frank Blum's son, Frank Jr., also became the proud father of a daughter. Claims papa: "He (Frank Sr.) wouldn't be so happy if he could hear her cry at night." And why not, we ask? Most judges sit on the bench all day and listen to people cry. . . .

LATE NEWS ON S.S.F. — The new mayor will be named in April. We'll name him now: Councilman Warren Steinkamp.

WHILE SOME BANKS are complaining about the food stamp program, Fred Mommer, prez of the First National Bank of D.C., says he's happy with the success of the program in his area. The bank has an outlet at the War Memorial building on Mission Street and handles about 1,000 people monthly. Mommer said the bank is not losing money on the deal and "we're very happy to serve the people of this community."

Dope Users Found in All Strata of Our Society

By GEORGE GOLDING

WHEN YOU ASK, "Who uses narcotics?" you get an answer that sounds like one of those World War II novels in which every military outfit had men with names carefully selected to range from Manikiewicz to Chavez, to Smith.

Second of a Series

The answer is, a little bit of everybody.

There are users in Hillsborough, and Pacifica, and East Palo Alto, and San Mateo, South San Francisco and Belmont.

One postal clerk told me he would use cocaine often, if he could afford it.

A waitress said she sometimes gets marijuana "roaches" as tips.

One couple drives a nice car, owns a home, runs a business, and get stoned on "pot" at parties, but only after leaving their children with a responsible babysitter.

A housewife in a very "straight" San Bruno neighborhood keeps marijuana in her kitchen spice jars, plainly labeled.

Hundreds of women swap

"diet" pills, possibly the most mis-used drug in existence. The pills are mostly amphetamines, or "speed" and come in a dazzling variety of shapes and colors.

The large green and white ones are said to have an aphrodisiac effect, others are said to "make you climb the walls" with nervousness, or chatter like an unstoppable record player. Many a mother can catalog the effects of various diet pills.

This is drug abuse, but all of us use drugs and most of us occasionally mis-use them.

Fighting such behavior is not a major occupation of the drug-battlers.

Their biggest "thing," is stopping young people from using dangerous or narcotic or habit-forming drugs, before they ever start. There are drug programs in all San Mateo County high school districts. The one in San Mateo, led by Kenneth Graham of the San Mateo County Drug Abuse Council, is said to be the best.

Graham suggests that it is not enough.

"We think it is working," he says, "but we've got to reach them younger, as young as the third or fourth or fifth grade."

For the past two years, seventh and eighth graders have been included in a county-wide survey of drug use among high schoolers.

Some distressing facts were revealed, but most distressing is the simple fact that some 12 and 13-year-olds are sampling drugs.

"We've got to reach them younger," Graham says. "A couple of years ago, these people were fifth and sixth graders who maybe hadn't tried tobacco or alcohol or marijuana yet. We've got to reach them before they do."

Approximately 56 per cent of all eighth graders have used alcoholic beverages.

Over half of the boys, and nearly half of the girls, have used amphetamines.

Over 10 per cent have used marijuana in the seventh grade, over 21 per cent have used it in the eighth grade.

The rates of usage and experimentation grow only slightly during high school, indicating that habit patterns established by the year of eighth grade life, are reasonably permanent.

This year, for the first time, the county survey sought information on the use of barbiturates among "junior high" students.

Statements by youngsters reveal that use of barbiturates peaks in sophomore or junior years of high school with about 20 per cent having tried the "downers" by then.

The drug's use starts earlier, however, with about 3 per cent of all seventh graders having tried barbiturates, and about 9 per cent of all eighth graders.

The trade is so good that some youngsters buy non-prescription pills that look like "reds," and peddle them to their friends at a fat profit. What happens when the friend gets a real pill and pops it down, is sometimes sickening.

Use of "reds" is apparently on the increase because so many people feel they are relatively "safe."

Waning Days in Vietnam

Last week Americans died in Vietnam. It is likely that more Americans are going to die during coming weeks.

But the time of dying is nearly over. It appears that the role of combat ground troops is near an end, and that as withdrawals continue, the American role will work steadily downward. The fact is, that regardless of the outcome in Cambodia and regardless of the action in Laos, we are leaving.

To most of us, this is necessary. It certainly is a fact that will quiet the nation, and will enable us to turn to new problems and, hopefully, other priorities.

But, during the waning days of combat more Americans continue to die, others to sustain wounds and still others to have their lives indelibly marked by the realities of modern combat.

As to those men, the war is still very alive, very total, and, in the case of last week's dead, very final. But with our national pre-occupation about the politics of the war and the shifting of national morality, we have forgotten just what we ask of our rear guard.

We ask them to fight and to die just as totally as though they were the first wave of Marines on Tarawa or Iwo Jima.

We ask them to bleed just as the victorious armies of the Battle of the Bulge were required to sustain injuries. We demand risk in just the same manner it was asked of those who left in ships in 1917 in the "war to end all wars." These men who will die and be wounded are no less heroic than those represented by the Unknown Soldier's grave, and are just as much a part of our heritage as those who fought for national purpose under Lincoln, Washington, Wilson and Roosevelt.

We ask all this (in fact demand it) while life at home goes on as usual. "Guns and butter" has been the tone from the beginning, and while we have discovered that such planning (or lack of it) has limitations, life for the average citizen is unmarked by obligation. We pay taxes and complain, and suffer from inflation and complain, but beyond this have no contact with the reality of national commitment.

Free of responsibility, we have turned to a decade of introspection. While our moody brooding has a good side in helping us understand fundamental truths about life in the United States, it also has a selfish tone. We have been so concerned about ourselves that we have left those who fight without tribute.

Their sacrifice is, in a way, greater than that of earlier armies who were surging forward to hoped for victories. These men are being asked to leave, no matter what.

Assuming the national psyche can be roused, we should be able to join in honor of those caught in this moment of history. Hawk and dove, Republican and Democrat, old and young should all be able to abandon internecine squabbling for a brief season and stand together in respect for those few who carry our burden.

William Armanino, a San Francisco Bay Area businessman, has an idea. He suggests that the flag be flown at half staff one day a week — not as an expression of any specific position with respect to the war — but solely as a tribute to and in honor of those who serve. I heartily endorse his concept. This or some other suitable observance would serve as silent thanks and also provide a reminder of our own involvement.

Some means of expressing a needed sentiment seems required, for seldom have so few been asked to give so much with less support from an ungrateful multitude.

The Chief's Corner

The Field Officers And Investigators

This is part of a series of articles dealing with the pro's and con's of a police merger and/or consolidation of services, prepared by Capt. Bill Cann of the San Bruno Police Department.)

Field Services are line functions and activities concerned with the fulfillment of the primary police responsibilities. These services include criminal investigation, vice and delinquency control, and special tactical operations.

The usual measurement of a Department's ability to perform is determined from its crime statistics showing increases or decreases, as well as high clearance rates on those crimes committed.

The criminal investigation section is often the biggest factor in this area and as such does not lend itself to consolidation as a service unless accompanied by the elimination of political boundaries.

To be effective the investigator depends on the field officers preliminary investigation along with the day to day information exchanged on an almost personnel basis. It should be noted further that some agencies do not have the capacity to handle some crimes, and frequently call upon other agencies for assistance. There is evidence to support both sides of this argument, and a number of agencies have had success with a consolidated unit.

DELINQUENCY CONTROL is frequently predicated on the needs and demands of the local community, and varies greatly from area to area. The intense personal relationship that sometimes must be developed between either delinquency specialist or field personnel does not lend to any consolidation. Programs must be directed at specific local problems, and the identity factor between the police and youth must be strengthened.

VICE CONTROL — Because of the amount of time necessary to investigate vice violations, whether they be narcotics, gambling or prostitution, many smaller agencies cannot devote the manpower necessary in this area to cope with long stake-outs, large numbers of personnel lost, and the broad area these violations cover.

At present agencies in this County are in the process of developing a narcotic squad which would operate on a county-wide basis similar to the successful program the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau has had over the last four years. This broadening would be directed toward the main problem in narcotics, the seller.

TASK FORCE OPERATIONS — A mobile striking force which can saturate an area to prevent crime or handle an emergency which necessitates the assistance of many personnel is not within the ability of most smaller agencies to operate. Presently a mutual aid pact among cities allows departments to request outside assistance on an immediate basis where the local entity can no longer cope with the problem.

Many of you have seen the results of this on television during riots in Richmond, San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley and Stanford.

The one drawback the present pact does not allow for is constant pre-scheduled deployment of saturation teams in areas of high crime. This method is a proven way to stop the crime before it occurs, our prime objective. Regionally developed teams of men could be developed to operate in this manner with an expected reduction in crime in areas serviced. Next week — some suggested plans.

A Woman Leader?

"Can a woman become President of the United States?"

To this question Pageant Magazine addresses an article by Shelby Coffey.

Women constitute more than 50 per cent of the population of this country and more than 50 per cent of the electorate.

A woman, Golda Meir, sits at the helm of Israel at a time when every move that her country makes may lead to a war with all the countries of Northern Africa and Asia Minor as opponents.

Another woman, Indira Gandhi, is the Prime Minister of India during a crucial period of building a modern state to take a leading place in the family of nations.

Texas, Wyoming, and Alabama have elected women governors while several states have sent women senators and representatives to Washington.

BUT ISRAEL AND INDIA, for all their problems, are not the United States. Most of the women governors and the women who have been members of Congress have followed their husbands into office either by appointment or by using his name and reputation.

A Gallup poll dated 1969 shows that only 54 per cent of the American electorate would consider voting for a woman President, however qualified. Moreover, only 49 per cent of the women interviewed by the Gallup people said they would vote for another woman.

This caused Mr. Coffey to wonder if "the self-image of women should be declared in need of revamping." It would seem," he says, "that image of woman as a domestic creature has burrowed into the American soul as deeply as the Puritan Ethic." Yet he believes there could be a woman President in the White House before the turn of the century.

If Senator Margaret Chase Smith became President, she would "classify our movies to protect our children from sadism, obscenity and sexual exploitation." Philanthropist Mary Lasker would "make family planning available to everyone." Movie Star Lauren Bacall would appoint Katherine Hepburn to her cabinet.

If Joan Baez woke up and found herself President of this country, she would scream and then resign. Singer Leontyne Price would appoint a Secretary of Cultural Affairs and make music, drama and literature course, compulsory in our elementary schools. Feminist Betty Friedan would "get the women of this country out of their sexual ghettos, while Marianne Moore would do away with forced retirement."

EVERYONE OF THE 16 famous women that McCall's Magazine interviewed for the January, 1968, issue would end the Vietnam War. They did not agree upon any other subject. So it seems, a woman President would find no real accord in her work among her sex. The answers given by the 16 women whom McCall interviewed are for the most part well-reasoned and serious. Showing, as one reviewer observed, the good sense of the women of the United

Shopping Carts Headaches, Too

Those handy-dandy shopping carts that most readers use when shopping at the markets and stores of their choice are more than just a convenience. They are becoming a headache both to store owners and to motorists who use store and shopping center parking lots.

The Bay Area Grocers Association speaks for its members and says, candidly, that the shopping carts are adding to total grocery bills because they are a top target for theft, vandalism and senseless destruction. The shiny carts, depending on size and type, cost from $30 to $50 each. Grocery profits average from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent so every time a market must replace a stolen or wrecked cart it has to sell from $2,500 to $3,000 in merchandise to meet the cost of the new one.

It all goes into the total cost of doing business and — guess who pays?

The same parties pay the cost of employees used to round up the carts, the cost of insurance against the people who bring suit when they get hurt by them — or when the baby falls out of the cart, and the costs of cart repairs.

And as most motorists have long since learned, the first scratches and dents in shiny new autos usually result from collisions with shopping carts. A carelessly pushed cart will bring the scratches, and carts running wild downhill, or maliciously propelled by small boys, will cause dents.

This time it is the injured car owner who pays since the cost of repairing these dents and scratches is almost invariably just short of the deductible portion of his auto insurance.

It may go against the grain, but the best thing to do with a shopping cart, after having enjoyed its convenience, is to return it to the store or market whence it came. Those who find carts that have been stolen or gone astray will find market and storeowners grateful for a telephone call so they can be picked up.

BETTER BUSINESS

By LORENE BEASLEY

QUESTION: Does a store have to sell merchandise at the price it was erroneously priced in the newspaper?

ANSWER: Some customers feel the advertising must sell at least one item at erroneous price. This is NOT correct. Whatever the advertiser chooses to do after an honest error depends entirely upon his own store's policies and how far he wants to go in satisfying disgruntled customers.

QUESTION: Will you please explain the three-day cancellation privilege I am entitled to receive in a real estate transaction?

ANSWER: Under the truth-in-lending law you have the right to cancel any transaction that involves putting up your home as security for a loan, excluding a first mortgage. This right to cancel lasts until midnight of the third business day after the transaction has taken place. Sundays are not included. Notices of cancellation must be in writing. The surest proof that you mailed the notice within the prescribed time is to register the letter at the Post Office. Another way of complying with the law is to deliver the written notice to the seller yourself in the company of a reliable, credible witness. In transactions subject to cancellation by the customer, contractors are required to delay starting work until the three-day period is ended.

QUESTION: How can you tell the difference between a legitimate public opinion survey and one that is nothing more than a tricky sales pitch?

ANSWER: Real interviewers do not ask you to buy any merchandise, do not ask you for money, and do not ask you to sign any papers. If someone, who claims to be an opinion survey interviewer, violates any one of these guides, call the Better Business Bureau.

QUESTION: I have been reading about government regulation of negative option plans. What is meant by a negative option plan?

ANSWER: We assume you mean the kind the FTC is looking into. In many book, record or vitamin club plans, you as a consumer, have to notify the company if you do not want a product. Otherwise it will keep arriving monthly — a book a month, a record a month, etc. Some customers forget to send in their NO or send it too late for the computer to take the cancellation.

With the arrival of spring, when demand for residential and commercial landscaping is at its peak, itinerants, posing as landscape contractors go into the landscaping business without the controls and restrictions of licensing and annually blik the public of millions of dollars through deception, misrepresentation and shoddy workmanship.

Their victims are generally the new homeowner and the small businessman who need landscaping work done but who do not know how to go about finding a competent contractor to do the work. Many people are unaware of the California law which calls for anyone who offers to perform landscape work in excess of $100 to be licensed and bonded.

Hans Biland, President of the San Francisco Bay Area Chapter of the California Landscape Contractor's Association, reports that complaints against the bootleg landscapers have already reached an all-time spring record. "The simplest way to avoid being cheated," he warns, "is to ask to see their C-27 landscape contractor's license."

And, he further warns, "take a good look at it. Many of them are clever enough to pawn off a $3.00 business license for the real thing."

Under the controls and restrictions of the California Landscape Contractor's Association, a landscape contractor must have had at least four years of experience and passed a rigid, state-administered examination. The required bonding gives the homeowner the assurance that he is dealing with an established businessman in the community who would stand to lose a great deal of money if the work he contracted for is not completed or performed according to professional standards.

For the past sixty-five years the "Terrible Williamsons" have been the slickest, most successful clan of itinerant bunco and confidence artists in the United States. They have rolled across the nation, cheating the public of staggering sums of money. Their methods and the methods of other unlicensed, fly-by-night landscapers are almost identical. They operate door-to-door, never give a business address and invariably employ a telephone answering service.

Their usual stock-in-trade is a hard-to-resist bargain. They justify their cut-rates because "we're doing a couple of other jobs in the neighborhood and so can give a good price for resurfacing the driveway or doing tree surgery."

The bootleg landscaper usually requests a sizable portion of the money in advance. He may never return to finish the job. He always has a convenient excuse for not being able to show his contractor's license. He may carry a phony license from another state. He will never give you a written contract or a reference that can be immediately verified.

Better Business Bureau education has paid off in past springs. A large number of householders called the bureau to check on itinerant's offers before signing contracts and were given the usual warnings. The itinerants did not get the jobs and the householder saved his money.

Miss San Bruno Entrants Sought; Contest May 15

The San Bruno Chamber of Commerce will launch its annual search for a beautiful, poised, talented girl with an outstanding personality to carry the banner of "Miss San Bruno 1971."

Chairman Harry Costa said the winner of the Miss San Bruno pageant will be entered as the city's representative in the Fiestaland Dream Girl Pageant on June 25.

The winner of the Dream Girl title will represent San Mateo County in the Maid of California contest at the state fair. Miss San Bruno 1970, Jody Rose, was first runnerup in last year's Dream Girl Pageant.

In addition to being a beauty contest entrant Miss San Bruno assumes the responsibility of representing the City and Chamber of Commerce at a multitude of civic functions and openings. This will be a particularly busy year because San Bruno is virtually bursting at the seams with commercial construction and activity.

Miss San Bruno 1971 will be awarded several prizes in addition to a scholarship for further education. Entrants must be between the ages of 17 and 25 and have been a resident of San Mateo County for one year. They must also be single girls who have never been married.

Tentative date for the local pageant is May 15.

Miss Industrial City Pageantry Saturday

Eleven South San Francisco girls have their eyes on the 1971 "Miss Industrial City" tiara. And one will wear it after Saturday night's pageantry in the Skyline College theatre in San Bruno.

The pageant will be a production of the Gay Nineties, featuring the Johnny Vaughn orchestra, the Baytones, Linda and Gloria Chiaparelli, Mae Bell, Bonnie Fowler, (Miss Industrial City, 1969), Susan Damonte (Miss San Mateo County) and Jodean Brochu (Miss Industrial City, 1970).

Contestants will compete in evening gowns and swim suits. A talent category is included. The "Miss Industrial City" hopefuls also will perform two dance numbers: one as the "Gibson Girls" of Central Park; the other a beach scene in the old-fashioned swim suits.

The queen and her court will receive over $200 in scholarships and awards. Proceeds from the pageant will be donated to the South San Francisco Scholarship Association.

Pageant contestants and their sponsors:

Robi Francesconi, Fire Fights No. 271; Janet Damonte, Fashion Coiffures; Lizabeth Ghigliazza, First Western Bank; Gabrielle Jex, Westborough Square; Marilyn Henkle, Imperial "400" Motel; Michele Kirchen, Sunshine Center; Nancy Brown, Foremost Market; Becky Curlee, Plaza Furniture; Lynn Dose, Petty Realty; Geryl Galloway, J. M. McDonalds; Lona Gallagher, Pinelli's Florist.

Tickets for the pageant may be obtained at Swensen's Ice Cream Parlour, Westborough; Schumacher's School of Dance and the theatre box office prior to the show.

Nick Gust—Man Who Wears 'Three Hats'

Take any one of three hats from the rack and it's sure to fit the head of Nick Gust. As the Mayor of Pacifica, five coastside communities incorporated into one, Nick has done more to improve and advance the area than any other single man.

His second hat is that of devoted family man, and his third is that of leading restaurateur. For it is Nick Gust who owns and operates a complex of restaurants at Rockaway Beach: Nick's, The Moonraker and The Papagayo Room.

Nick's is a famed meeting spot and rendezvous sight for Sunday morning breakfasts, for it offers a vista view of the Pacific (this same view is just as enjoyable at night, as Nick has installed a lighting system). The dinners are served complete with hors d'oeuvres, soup, mixed green salad, main course, dessert and coffee. Among the numerous house specialties are Calves Sweetbreads (with mushrooms); Double French Lamb Chops (mint jelly); and steaks of all shapes and sizes — from New York to rib.

There is a special seafood section on the menu which lets you choose from Filet of Sole; Jumbo Fried Prawns; Grilled Abalone Steak, etc.

Nick's entertainment includes Jim Payer at the organ Wednesday through Sunday from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m., and the Del Carlo Combo, with Mary Ann Hay on vocals, performing Fridays and Saturdays to accommodate the extra-large dance crowds which congregate here. Directly next door is the Seabreeze Motel (20 units), which makes for a colorful setting, what with the eternal pounding of the surf right outside your door.

Located across the way to Nick's are both the Moonraker and the Papagayo Room.

The Moonraker is designed for the connoisseur who demands the very finest in cuisine, atmosphere and service. The nautical decor, with its sea-faring relics and salty motifs, provides just the right crowning touch. Don Kelly, one of the most popular of pianobar celebrities, plays Tuesday through Sunday in the lounge, offering a random sampling of songs that is sure to include your favorite tune.

Downstairs, the Papagayo Room is the place for Mexican food (Nick and Lorraine Gust are currently offering two Combination Mexican dinners for the price of one through the end of March — just clip out the coupon on Bright Lights pages and drop in Sunday through Friday for your meal). We highly recommend the Meat Ball Soup for your first course.

If you are looking for facilities for private parties, banquets, wedding receptions and meeting rooms, please get in touch with Nick or Joseph Mollich and they will set you up with whatever you need.

Bill Cosby-Barbara McNair

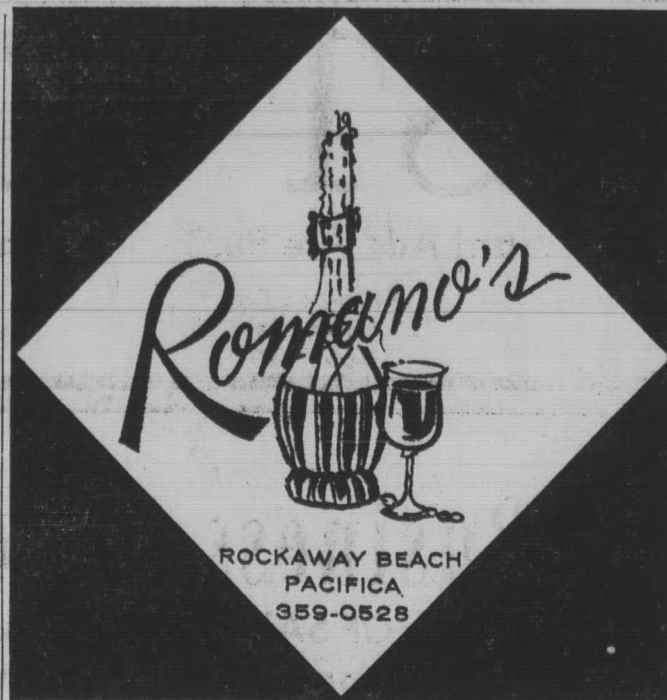

Comedian Bill Cosby and song stylist Barbara McNair will appear twice nightly, March 25 through April 7, in the South Shore Room at Harrah's Tahoe. This comedy and song combination is a fitting beginning to the return of seven-nights-a-week entertainment at Harrah's Tahoe. In the Stateline Cabaret are Gaylord and Holiday, Leadfeather, Inc., and The Tokyo Playmates. . . . Roger "King of the Road" Miller and his guitar and comedienne Joan Rivers are providing an excellent twin attraction in the Headliner Room at the Harrah's Reno Hotel-Resort complex, through March 31. In the Casino Cabaret are Jim Bailey and David Bevins, Jim Burgett, and Ken Edwards and the Family Heritage. . . . The Matterhorn's decor is simple but thematic to the Swiss dishes owner Wilfried Blarer specializes in. Located at 1135 Broadway in Burlingame, this European restaurant is a giant among tidbits. . . . In a skillful blend of imagination and taste, the San Raku restaurant on Second Avenue has created a distinctive Japanese theme for their dining room. Another plus is the authenticity of the Japanese dishes. . . . Y'all come: Foster's Freeze on El Camino, San Mateo, will offer a giant One-cent Sale that demands attention, March 21 through March 24. Buy a burger, get a second one for one cent; also a discount on milk shakes.

Belmont's Studio Western

Country and Western sounds abound at The Studio in Belmont, where owners Elsie Adams and Curt Bartly continue to showcase the best C & W groups in the Bay Area. The band takes the stage on Friday and Saturday nights, and during Sunday jam sessions. Dancing seven nights a week. . . . Joe and Lou Ercoli have exceptional banquet facilities at their Leaning Tower. Among the business groups gathering here were executives from Kaiser and the Westinghouse Corporation. . . . John Hutchinson, manager of Yolanda's Terminal Cafe, is already planning his menu for Easter Sunday dinner. Service will be from 12 noon to 9 p.m., and reservations are already being taken. . . . Scotty Campbell's in Redwood City is one of those warm, genial eating places that, on entering immediately reflects the owners' personalities. It's a "family affair" here — meeting and greeting is Mary Lou Francis; Theresa and her husband Bud (they are presently attending their Nippersink Manor Resort), and Mrs. Helen Trainor, mother of the sisters. "An elegant restaurant for elegant people" . . . "We consider each customer a personal guest," says Vince Licata, owner of Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant, "whose patronage is most sincerely appreciated." And they do their utmost to merit this policy.

Romano's Combination Pizza

Enrico Romano, owner and operator of Romano's Italian restaurant in Pacifica's Rockaway Beach, suggests that when you order one of his pizzas you try his Combination Pizza, as this comes loaded with all the ingredients you can imagine — and then some. . . . The massive and warm fireplace which dominates the cocktail lounge at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto is an inviting sight on a chill night. Comfortable casual chairs and sofas make sipping before the fire doubly relaxing. . . . House specialties are numerous at Exposition Fish Grotto at Fisherman's Wharf. There is even a separate headline on the menu for Oyster dishes and special casseroles.

Proposed State Health Cutbacks Criticized

The director of San Mateo County's Health and Welfare Department said Wednesday that Gov. Ronald Reagan's proposed cuts in the state's health and welfare system represent a "poverty of thought."

Speaking in San Mateo, Dr. George Pickett, who has been on the job here since last November, said that if the governor's program is instituted by the legislature, "It will create havoc in an already deeply troubled area."

Dr. Pickett said further that the approach of the governor's advisors is related almost purely to costs and that such an approach represents a "deficit in thinking."

He noted that the counties are going to feel the brunt of the cuts in that they will have soon to foot large new bills which the state had handled before.

Dr. Pickett criticized the governor's recent attacks on the recipients of welfare because of the implication that there is something immoral about receiving state support.

"There is the feeling throughout his remarks that there is something basically wrong with being on welfare," he said.

"Throughout his reforms there is only the vague notion that there really are people who need such aid. That there really are people who are totally disabled, blind, and the like."

He lamented the fact that even the governor's own advance men, those who are going into the state to promote the cuts, are not medical men at all. "He is sending out accountants to talk about the program," Dr. Pickett added.

"He has said he can save millions of dollars with the cuts but, when asked, his spokesmen admit that they aren't sure where that money is being saved. They refer to their figures as 'sky figures.' No one really knows how much is going to be saved."

Admitting that certain reforms are needed, Dr. Pickett pointed out that the day is obviously gone when medical men could simply have carte blanche whenever they said they needed some new equipment or wanted a new facility.

"In 1971, there just isn't any more money," he said. "The time has come when the medical profession, especially the public medical profession, must begin to analyze the cost of treatment. Lower costs care must be found."

To that end, he explained that certain kinds of traditional medical care both here and in other parts of the country are inefficient to a rather gross degree.

He pointed out that this county alone is about 30 to 40 per cent overbuilt with hospital facilities.

"This situation jacks up the costs of hospital care because of all those empty beds," he said. "Empty beds mean there is inefficiency. One of the results of this is that people find they are staying longer in the hospitals. In Detroit in 1967 (during the summer rioting) we asked all the city hospitals to immediately send home 30 per cent of their patients. They did so and none of them was hurt by it."

The rising costs of medical care are a crucial part of what's wrong with the present system, he said.

All of these factors have contributed to what's happening in California now, he went on.

If the Reagan package is approved as it now stands, Dr. Pickett predicted that the county would have to cut back its mental health program again by July 1.

He also predicted that chances for an improved dental care program for the poor would be just about nil.

"To treat all of the underprivileged youngsters in this county between childhood and adolescence who need dental care would cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $20 and $30 million a year," he said. "The community doesn't understand this. But there just isn't enough silver to fill all those holes. The best we can do would be to begin a plan to treat kids between 2½ and five and hope that this treatment will be carried over into their later lives."

He predicted that such a plan would not be acceptable to the community either.

About a possible "storefront clinic" in Daly City, something which has lately been an issue there among the poor, Dr. Pickett said he doubted if the county would be willing to help fund it. He said it would take something $2 million to fund it.

He added that helping to finance that clinic would necessarily increase the inefficiency of Choche Community Hospital in San Mateo by taking patients away from that facility.

Norris to Sponsor W. Germany Trip

For the third summer a Jefferson Union High School District student will spend six weeks in West Germany as a "Young Ambassador" in Volkswagen's tenth annual Youth Exchange Program.

Ed Norris of Ed Norris Volkswagen, Daly City, a sponsoring dealer, said the student will exchange homes, families and friends with a German teenager so they both can learn firsthand about the people, customs and views of another nation.

"The local student's family is a 'winner' in this program too, because they are able to host a German teenager for the summer," he said.

A committee of civic leaders will select the local winner on the basis of high scholastic standing, personality, extra-curricular activities and adaptability to change. The German student will be selected from one of the Volkswagen factory cities.

Patricia Bresnahan of Pacifica and Laura de Ghetaldi of Daly City were sponsored by Norris in 1969 and 1970.

memo from
Matt Reis:

"We Never Take You For Granted"

Just think of the many dealers who serve the Bay Area... hundreds of them. So, why should we expect you to come to Metcalf-Reis for your car, new or used. Maybe it's because we treat people a little differently. We care about you a little more and try to do a little more to satisfy your needs for a car. AND WE TRY TO SAVE YOU MONEY ON YOUR PURCHASE AT THE SAME TIME!! Maybe that's why we're so busy around here (but never so busy to take you for granted).
